New Work Begins on Hawthorne

Award of a $306,000 highway contract for the improvement of Hawthorne Avenue on the Palos Verdes Peninsula has been approved by the Board of Supervisors.

The Hess Construction Co. was awarded the project, based on a low bid of $306,893. The work provides for improvement of the street from Crest Road to Vallon Drive.

Work already is under way on improvements between Newton Street in Torrance and Crest Road.

Plans, prepared by the County Road Department, call for the construction of a fully-curbed four-lane highway cutting across the Peninsula. Portions of Hawthorne on the Peninsula are now two lanes wide.

A channelized median strip, drainage facilities, and gutters are included in the work.

A full-color film of Astronaut Edward White's historic "walk in space" during the Gemini IV mission is now being shown at the California Museum of Science and Industry in Exposition Park.

The film, which depicts White's antics while outside the Gemini spacecraft, is screened daily from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration released the film for showing throughout the nation.

R. A. Watt Sweeps Conference Honors

Top honors at the 1965 Pacific Coast Builders Conference in San Francisco were swept by a Southern California firm, R. A. Watt, Incorporated of Gardena, a conference representative said.

First place in the Builders Merchandising Award contest sponsored by Home Builders Journal magazine was presented to the Watt firm. Ray Watt, president, and H. H. Litten, public relations director shared the honors.

The Builders Merchandising contest was to select the most outstanding advertising, sales promotion, and new home merchandising campaign currently being used in the West. Nearly every major builder and his advertising agency entered the competition.

Grand prize in the Gold Nugget model home contest also was presented Watt and his design department head, Phil Blair, AIBD. This latter competition was sponsored by American Builder Magazine.

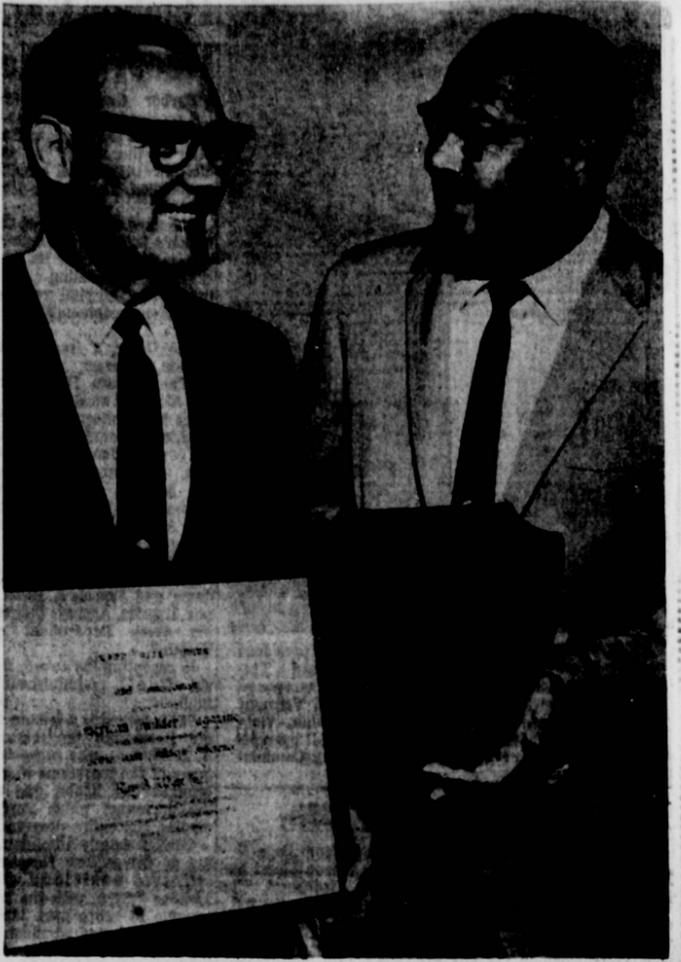

THE GOLD Nugget citation read, "In recognition of excellence of design and construction and value for the money of a quality model home," the conference spokesman said.

The Gold Nugget award represented recognition for a design compared with those of builders and designers throughout the United States. It marked the fourth time a Watt-built and Blair-designed home has come in for national recognition.

Both the Builders Merchandising and Gold Nugget awards were in recognition of outstanding presentation to the public of Watt's Mount Washington-West development in Los Angeles.

COMPETITION for the Builders Merchandising Award was especially keen with dramatic, new home developments throughout the west seeking recognition.

The Watt firm has been building award-winning homes for 18 years. Litten has served as public relations/advertising director for the past four years. Max W. Becker Advertising of Long Beach is Watt's agency, with Donald R. Kracke, vice president for creative services, serving as account supervisor.

At Marymount

New Work Program Is Successful

Fourteen undergraduates are participating in the Marymount College Work-Study Program this summer. The first successful local pilot program was completed at the college during the spring semester.

The experimental activity took place at the Toberman Settlement House and the YWCA in San Pedro, and the Little Company of Mary Hospital, Torrance, which resulted in a grant of $33,833 in federal funds through the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 for the summer period and their tuition and other necessary expenses for the fall semester, and when they report for classes in September they will be able to carry full study schedules with the part-time jobs arranged by the college.

Among the various locales in which Marymount students are active this summer under the program are the Inglewood YMCA and Inglewood Unified School District, as well as the San Pedro YWCA and the Little Company of Mary Hospital.

OTHERS ARE the Los Angeles Maryvale Orphanage, the Los Angeles Headquarters of the USO, the Toberman House, the United Way in Van Nuys, the Immaculate Conception Home for Girls in Los Angeles, the Beverly Boulevard Hospital in Montebello, and Angels Unaware in San Diego.

Coordinator for the program at Marymount is Mrs. Gerald A. Larue, from whom details may be obtained by writing her at the Admission Office on the Palos Verdes Estates campus.
